CONTENTS

No. 1 JANUARY, 1945

HARRY A. WAISMAN, KEITH B. MCCALL AND C. A. ELVEHJEM. Acute and chronic biotin deficiencies in the monkey (Macaca mulatta). Three figures 1

H. H. MITCHELL, T. S. HAMILTON AND J. R. BEADLES. With the technical assistance of Frank Simpson. The importance of commercial processing for the protein value of food products. I. Soybean, coconut and sunflower seed 13

BEULAH D. WESTERMAN AND E. G. BAYFIELD. Enriched, Morris type and whole wheat flour as sources of the B-complex vitamins. Three figures 27

O. L. KLINE, LEO FRIEDMAN AND E. M. NELSON. The effect of environmental temperature on thiamine requirement of the rat. One figure 35

HERBERT C. STOERK AND WILLIAM H. CARNES. With the assistance of Claudia French and Thelma Stout. The relation of the dietary CA: P ratio to serum CA and to parathyroid volume. Three figures 43

ANNE WILLIAMSON AND HELEN T. PARSONS. Some factors influencing the fecal elimination of thiamine by human subjects. Two figures 51

WERNER BRAUN. Studies on the carotenoid and vitamin A levels in cattle. I. Seasonal changes of the carotenoid and vitamin A levels and the normal carotenoid-vitamin A ratio of the blood. Two figures 61

WERNER BRAUN. Studies on the carotenoid and vitamin A levels in cattle. II. Carotenoids and vitamin A in the liver, their ratio and their relationship to blood levels. Two figures 73

ANCEL KEYS. Editorial Review. The refinement of metabolic calculations for nutritional purposes and the problem of "availability" 81

No. 2 FEBRUARY, 1945

KARL C. HAMNER, LEON BERNSTEIN AND L. A. MAYNARD. Effects of light intensity, day length, temperature, and other environmental factors on the ascorbic acid content of tomatoes 85

I. M. RABINOWITCH. Short period blood sugar time curves following ingestion of sucrose 99

JAMES H. SHAW AND PAUL H. PHILLIPS. Neuropathologic studies of pantothenic acid, biotin and folic acid complex deficiencies in the chick 107

JAMES H. SHAW AND PAUL H. PHILLIPS. Neuropathologic studies of acute and chronic thiamine deficiencies and of inanition. Two text figures and one plate (nine figures) 113

JAMES H. JONES, CLAIRE FOSTER, FRIEDA DORFMAN AND GLADYS L. HUNTER, with the technical assistance of Mabel E. Quinby and Dorothy L. Alexander. Effects on the albino mouse of feeding diets very deficient in each of several vitamin B factors. (Thiamine, riboflavin, pyridoxine and pantothenic acid.) One figure 127

A. Z. HODSON. The nicotinic acid, pantothenic acid, choline and biotin content of fresh, irradiated evaporated and dry milk 137

A. KATHRINE MILLER. The effect of succinylsulfathiazole and phthalylsulfathiazole on the bacterial flora of rat feces 143

ERRATUM

Through printer's error, paragraph beginning on page 87 in vol. 29, no. 2, is incorrect. The first line should be struck out and the following first line inserted:

"The extremes when all varieties are considered are 8.4 ± 0.50 and"

No. 3 MARCH, 1945

R. E. Johnson, R. C. Darling, F. Sargent and P. Robinson. With the technical assistance of M. Bartlett and A. Kibler. Effects of variations in dietary vitamin C. on the physical well being of manual workers 155

DeWitt Stetten, Jr. and Juan Salcedo, Jr. The effect of chain length of the dietary fatty acid upon the fatty liver of choline deficiency 167

Homer, D. Kesten, Juan Salcedo, Jr, and DeWitt Stetten, Jr. Fatal myocarditis in choline deficient rats fed ethyl laurate. Four figures 171

Dorothy R. Hagedorn, Emma D. Kyhos, O. A. Germek and Elmer L. Sevringhaus. Observations on riboflavin excretion by the adult male. One figure 179

Jerald G. Wooley and W. H. Sebrell. Niacin (nicotinic acid), an essential growth factor for rabbits fed a purified diet. Five figures 191

Arthur D. Holmes and Carleton P. Jones. Effect of sunshine upon the ascorbic acid and riboflavin content of milk. One figure 201

Esther Rutherford Metcalf and Milicent L. Hathaway. Citrate metabolism of preschool children 211

H. J. Almquist and C. R. Grau. Further studies on cystine, methionine and choline in chick diets 219

No. 4 APRIL, 1945

U. S. Maxwell and Glen Wakeham. The basal metabolic rate of the American Negro, with particular reference to the effect of menstruation on the female. Three figures 223

Evan W. McChesney and Nicholas J. Giacomino. Studies of calcium and phosphorus metabolism in the chick. III. Some time relationships in the action of vitamin D 229

Harry J. Deuel, Jr., and Eli Movitt. With the technical assistance of Evelyn Brown. Studies on the comparative nutritive value of fats. V. The growth rate and efficiency of conversion of various diets to tissue in rats weaned at 14 days. Two figures 237

M. Caroline Hrubetz, Harry J. Deuel, Jr., and Bernard J. Hanley. With the technical assistance of Martha Fairclough. Studies on carotenoid metabolism. V. The effect of a high vitamin A intake on the composition of human milk 245
